ADJOURNS UNTIL MONDAY Death

The House Does So to Prevent Democratic Speeches.

REPUBLICAN RETREAT

It Follows a Master Stroke to Keep the Minority From Discussing Cuba and Dingleyism-Mr. Reed's Autocratic Ruling Against Mr. Bandy, Who Wanted to Speak.

The Republicans of the House exc cuted a masterly movement yesterday but it was a retreat. They adjourned the House over from vesterday afterneen till next Monday, the act recalling the policy of the House during the sion, when it adjourned three days at a time to avoid a discussion of the silver question and the Cubar question it appears that there is not enough business ready to keep the House in work, and it is feared that if it remains in session there can be no valid excuse for not debating questions of public in-terest. It is the questions of public inin fact, that it is expressly desired toldvold .=

The session of the House yesterday was also remarkable for the first fillbustering of the winter. It was intended as a rebuke to what was considered an exceedingly autocratic rulsidered an exceedingly autocratic rul-ing of the Speaker, which took a Demo-crat off his feet who had been granted the right to speak. The debate pro and con on this question was acrimonious, and cost the Republicans the waste of rearly a whole day, with the prospect that these tactics will be resorted to at any time that it occurs to the Demo-crats as beneficial to the party. Only three small matters were be-fore the House, and yet a half hour could not be given to a Democrat to make a speech.

The Republicans affected to be trri-tated by Mr. Handy, of Delaware. It was supposed by the Republicans that he had been held in the leash by the conociats, who desired to spring him to the House with a red-hot Cuban beach, involving the Dupny de Lome tier. As a matter of fact, Mr. Handler, and wanted time to puncture some the statements in the lett r of Thom.

The Democrats then made the square issue that Mr. Handy proceed whether order or not, Mr. Handy admitting that what he had to say was not germane to the bill.

On the aye and no vote, on a division, by tellers, and on the yeas and mays, which were called, the Democrats were defeated, and Mr. Handy was not permitted to proceed in or our of order He gave notice, however, that he would beard in due time

The suppression of Mr. Handy led a blocking of the Perkins bill, and ression of Mr. Handy led to the first genuine fillibustering of the session. Nearly two hours were exiscussions and roll-calls, When the third reading the hill was called for only sixty members voted in the aggregate. The and of the House was ordered, with Instructions by the Speaker to bring In the absentees

The fight and filibusiering were renewed on the bill, reported from the Ways and Means Committee, making Rockford, Me. a sub-port of entry. One hour was granted to the Democrats for debate. The thirty minutes were surrendered again to Mr. Handy, who had hardly begun his speech when Mr. Dal-zell arose and insisted that the gentleman from Delaware was out of order.

It was contended that Mr. Handy wished to discuss the question, and in Living Exhibits of the Deputies' Assault at Lattimer.

WORKMEN SHOT AS THEY FLED

Intelligent Men at Wilkesharre Give Strong Evidence Against Sheriff Martin and His Men-Vindictive Spirit Manifested by the Members of the Posse, Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 10.-A wellconnected story of the shooting down of unarmed men fleeing from the deputies was told on behalf of the prosecution in today's proceedings in the trial of Sheriff Martin and his deputies for the shooting at Lattimer on September 10. Living exhibits were also put in evidence.

Several of the witnesses who had been wounded were made to remove their clothing and show the scars on their bodies.

Daniel J. Ferry, a young man from Hazieton, a tea and coffee dealer there, was the most important one of the day. He is an intelligent man, and was ex. amined closely by the prosecution and defense. After stating that he had driven from Hazleton to Lattimer on the day of the shooting in quest of orders he said that he first saw the strikers coming along when he was well on his way to Lattimer. They were comhe saw a man in the front rank bearing an American flag. When he got to Lattimer he saw the deputies drawn up, and as he evidently foresaw an encounter he stopped his wagen along-side the electric railway embankment and awaited developments. Presently he saw the strikers come within some fifty yards of the line of deputies and saw the sheriff step out of the line of deputies and go up to and speak to the

"I could not hear what the sheriff said to the strikers," said the witness, "as I was behind the deputies. How-ever, I saw the sheriff wrangle with two men and get pushed into the ditch along the road by them. At the same instant I heard a shot and immediately after a volley. I saw several in the front rank of the strikers fall and then the crowd began to disperse and run in all directions." What happened then?"

"The deputies continued to shoot after the fleeing men. I saw one man shot, he fell on the railroad track, and got up, whereupon he received another

Mr. Lenahan's cross-examination, searching and minute as it was, falled to shake the testimony of the witness in any material point. On the contrary it only brought out more clearly the point that when the shooting began the sheriff was in a ditch alongside the line of fire and therefore in no danger out any blas. The only point favorable to the defense was brought out by Mr. Lenahan, that the witness had seen the sheriff hold up his hands toward the crowd as if expostulating or warning. August Cascotski gave an intelligent account of the happenings at V

John Pentrick, John Urich and Joseph Mokki, only reiterated the oft-told occurrence West Hazleton and Lattimer, and told of no new incidents except that Mokki asserted that one of the depu-ties at West Hazleton had made the remark that they would shoot the strik-ers down like dogs.

Mokki and Harris, the last of the day's witnesses, had been respectively t in the right arm and lower part back, and exhibited their wo to the jury.

THE SON AVENGED HIM. Peter Barcia on Trial for Killing

His Father's Murderer. New York, Feb. 10.-Peter Barcia, 20 years old, who lives in East Thirteenth street, was on trial to-day in the criminal branch of the supreme court charged with killing Frank Sassata, who, six years ago, killed Barcia's father.

Cassata was a barber, doing business in Sixth avenue, near Fifty-second street. After he had killed Barcia's father he was convicted of murder in the first degree, but his counsel, Lawyer Howe, succeeded in getting him a new trial, and got him out of the Tombs on ball. According to the prosecution, the son
